BATES HOUSE.

RUTLAND, VERMONT.

OPEN JULY 1, 1877.

The traveling public, who so liberally patronized the Bates House, previous to its destruction by fire in 1876, will be pleased to learn that it has been rebuilt, and will be opened on the 1st day of July 1877. The new hotel stands on the site of the old one, but is larger and more conveniently arranged. No expense has been spared in fitting it up in a first-class manner, and it stands second to no hotel in this or any other State for convenience of arrangement and adaptation to the comfort of its guests. It has been finished throughout in superior style, with all the modern improvements; is heated by steam, and furnished with entirely new and elegant black-walnut furniture. It is lighted by gas, has hot and cold water, bath rooms, etc. In short, everything that taste could suggest or genius invent for the comfort of travelers has been placed at the disposal of the patrons of the Bates House. Commercial men will find the new hotel even more convenient and desirable, as a resort for drummers, than the old one. All the rooms are light and pleasant and can be used singly or en suite. Families can make special arrangements for convenient and comfortable suites of rooms.
